

The English Department at the University of Georgia announces a search for a Lecturer in Rhetoric and Composition to begin in August 2019. The successful candidate will teach First-year Composition and some upper-division writing courses. The teaching load is 4/4. This is a non-tenure-track position, renewable on a yearly basis depending on satisfactory performance and the availability of funding. Lecturers may be promoted to Senior Lecturer after five years of service.

Preferred credentials are a Ph.D. in Rhetoric and Composition and a minimum of two years experience teaching writing; or a Ph.D. in English with academic coursework in rhetoric, composition theory and pedagogy, or professional writing and a minimum of two years experience teaching writing. Minimum required credentials are an MFA with academic coursework in rhetoric, composition theory and pedagogy, or MFA with two years professional writing experience and two years of experience teaching writing. We particularly welcome candidates with expertise in and ability to teach in one or more of the following secondary areas: digital writing and rhetoric; professional and technical communication; multimodal composition; new media; writing analytics; and multilingual writing.

Additional information and applications may be filed online at UGA Jobs: <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/32333> Qualified candidates should submit the following materials: a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, names and email address of three references, and a Teaching Portfolio. The closing date for applications is November 10, 2018, and review of applications will begin on this date. The Search Committee Chair is Dr. Elizabeth Davis, who can be reached at eadavis@uga.edu.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.