

Endowed Chair in 20th- and 21st-Century African American Literature

Department of English, University of Georgia

The Department of English at the University of Georgia invites applications from specialists in late 20th- and 21st-Century African American Literature for the Sterling-Goodman Professorship, to begin on August 1, 2019. We are interested in candidates at the level of Full Professor, who possess a doctorate in English or related fields. Advanced Associate Professors with immediate prospects for promotion to Full Professor are also encouraged to apply. To be eligible for tenure on appointment, candidates must be appointed as full professor, have been tenured at a prior institution, and bring a demonstrably national reputation to the institution. They also must be approved for tenure upon appointment before hire.

As an endowed chair, the Sterling–Goodman Professor receives an annual research and travel budget and teaches three courses during the academic year. Qualified candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample. Applications may be filed online at UGA Jobs: <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/32174> The closing date for applications is November 5, 2018. The search committee chair is Dr. Barbara McCaskill: bmccaski@uga.edu.

The Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive.
