Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Latinx Studies

The Department of Romance Languages at the University of Georgia (http://www.rom.uga.edu/) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor, effective August 2018, in Latinx Studies. Required: Ph.D. in Spanish or Ethnic Studies and native or near-native proficiency in Spanish. Teaching load: two courses per semester (4/yr). Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to research and be prepared to teach undergraduates as well as graduate students in our vibrant M.A. and Ph.D. programs within an interdisciplinary and international curriculum that integrates language, literatures, and cultures.

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, three references with contact information, writing sample, and statement of teaching philosophy. Please submit all materials electronically at the following address: http://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/2828. Review of applications will begin on November 9, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

UGA is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Americans with Disabilities Act employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, or protected veteran status. The Franklin College of Arts & Sciences, its many units, and UGA are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive. Faculty members are expected to contribute to the college’s goals of creating and sustaining a diverse and inclusive learning environment.

Georgia offers a high quality of life in regard to both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land and sea grant institution located in Athens, 70 miles northeast of Atlanta, the state capital (http://diversity.uga.edu/; www.flagpole.com).