

The Department of Mathematics at the University of Georgia invites applications for a tenure-track position in the area of applied mathematics at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in August 2019. Duties will consist of research and teaching in mathematics, as well as departmental service. A Ph.D., or equivalent foreign degree, in Mathematics or a closely related field is required. Successful applicants should show promise of moving towards outstanding credentials in mathematical research and towards a commitment of excellence in teaching and mentoring undergraduate and graduate students. Complete applications must be received by November 5, 2018 to ensure full consideration, but review will continue until the positions are filled. The University of Georgia is located in Athens, Georgia, which has a vibrant and engaging intercultural community, about 75 miles northeast of Atlanta.

To apply, please submit a vita with a list of publications, a teaching statement, and a research statement, and four letters of recommendation (one addressing the candidate's teaching skills), through mathjobs.org. Applications must also be submitted through UGAJobs, <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/32490>. Applications are incomplete and will not be considered until entered both on UGAJobs and MathJobs.

The Mathematics Department, the Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive.
