Dr. Stabb then summarized recent University Council business of interest to the Senate. First, course evaluations are currently available to students on-line with four mandatory, university-wide questions. The senate discussed adding a fifth question specific to Franklin College. Concerns included how the data would be used and overall rationale for adding questions.

Second, Dr. Stabb informed the senate of a policy recently submitted to the University Council by Dr. David Live. This policy proposed that any future furloughs include exemptions for those on sponsored funds. Dr. Live was in attendance and briefly presented the policy.

Dr. Stabb offered the following motion, which was seconded by Ron Orlando. The motion was carried unanimously.

“Motion that the Faculty Senate endorse the proposal put forth by Dr. David Live in the University Council that future furloughs include exemptions for those on sponsored funds.”

Dean Stokes' Remarks:

Dean Stokes began by noting the end of another successful academic year. Second, the Dean discussed the current budget situation and indicated that more information would be available in the upcoming months.
